What are Lowlines?

Lowline cattle are true beef cattle in a compact smaller frame size. They are well proportioned 100% Angus, heritage beef cattle that are naturally polled and docile animals. They are not dwarfs and have no dwarfism traits. They were bred with an emphasis on weight gain and conformation. Lowlines are well suited to beef production on grass and because of their lower maintenance costs, are more efficient converters of grass to meat than today's larger breeds.

What Size Are They?

Average size mature cows generally weigh about 650 to 950 pounds and stand from 36 to 42 inches at the shoulder. Average size mature Lowline bulls weigh from 950 to 1350 pounds and stand from 39 to 46 inches. The average birth weight of fullblood calves is 42 to 62 pounds.

Why Lowlines?

Lowlines are a perfect choice for small acreage farmers. Their small size makes them easy to handle and minimizes equipment requirements. Their feed efficiency improves the carrying capacity of a farm. They produce exceptional quality beef. They are ideal show animals for 4-H and other youth projects bringing in the next generation of cattle people. They may also offer the tax advantages of an agriculturally based property and business.

Lowline cross cattle are extremely well suited to grass-fed beef production as they are easy fleshing and will finish on a high roughage ration, producing high value carcasses with a minimum of input costs.

What Impact Can Lowlines Make in Your Commercial Beef Program?

Given their feed requirements for a commercial operation there are less inputs, higher stocking rates and more rib eye area per 100 pounds of carcass weight. A 3 year study, where Lowline bulls were used on commercial heifers that ended in 2006 by North Dakota State University, Dickinson Research Extension Center came to this conclusion for the commercial industry "The halfblood Lowline steers average weight for the three year study was 1221 lbs., 51-52 inches at the hip, and brought 92 cents per pound average. " These bulls produce small calves that grow."
